H. Woodard Kills His Brother-in-Law Gus Pool!

At five o'clock Tuesday afternoon a pistol shot rang out on Main street and people were horrified to learn that H. Woodard had shot through the heart of his brother-in-law, Gus Pool.

The shooting occurred just as The News goes to press and scant particulars are obtainable. The tragedy occurred in front of Foster's confectionery, and is reported to be a sequel to a dispute over money matters. Some months ago Mr. Pool instituted suit for considerable amount against Mr. Woodard, it is said, alleging it to be due for wages and borrowed funds.

The wounded man expired in a few moments. Mr. Woodard made no attempt to resist arrest.

Considering the prominence and the kinship of the men, the killing is a terrible shock to the community.

CHARLES N. HASKELL FOR GOVERNOR---WHY?

Under the above heading The Muskogee Times-Democrat espouses the cause of Haskell for governor in an exhaustive editorial which follows:

The Times-Democrat is for C. N. Haskell of Muskogee for governor. This paper has refrained from expressing a preference as between Democratic candidates for office previous to the nominating convention until now. The reason for this has been apparent. It is not the province of a newspaper to attempt to dictate its party candidates. The selection of candidates belongs to the people and under ordinary circumstances it is unwise for a party paper to dip in before the nominations are made. However, developments of the past two weeks within the new state have forced this newspaper to depart from its fixed purpose of neutrality as between Democrats.

The Daily Oklahoman of Oklahoma City, one of the largest newspapers in the new state, has seen fit not only to champion the cause of one of the three candidates for governor, but to heap personal abuse upon the other two candidates. The Oklahoman has been especially bitter in its attacks upon C. N. Haskell of this city. The attacks upon Mr. Haskell by the Oklahoman are the result of political differences between Roy Stafford, the editor of the Oklahoman, and Mr. Haskell. Stafford has become manager of the Cruce campaign and has opened his batteries of mire and filth in an attempt to besmirch the character of Mr. Haskell in the vain hope of hiding his candidacy behind a cloud of dirt.

Mr. Haskell has proven himself a loyal Democrat. He has been one of the Indian Territory's most progressive state builders. He has rendered inestimable service to this city. He is entitled to the support of his neighbors and the party paper of his home town.

There are many reasons why C. N. Haskell should be the Democratic candidate for governor. In the first place he is the biggest, broadest and most Democratic man before the people of this state. He would make the best governor of the new state. Mr. Haskell's work as a member of the Sequoyah convention and later as a member of the constitutional convention at Guthrie has peculiarly fitted him to act as the first governor of Oklahoma. The new constitution is regarded by fair critics as a most remarkable document in that it conserves the interests of the people and is free from those things which usually creep into the laws of the state as the result of corporation lobbies. Mr. Haskell is in sympathy with every section of the constitution. He was present at all sessions of the convention and voted for every proposition in the document. He understands the measure thoroughly and is acquainted with the sentiment of the people which dictated the different provisions. He knows why they were adopted and what purposes they were intended to promote. Mr. Haskell as a delegate to the constitutional convention listened to the farmers' representatives and then assisted in putting their ideas into the organic law of the new state; he met representatives of Union labor and helped to secure for them the protection they sought; he discussed the needs of the state commercially with representatives of business men's organizations and assisted in writing the best thought from this important element of the community into the constitution; he stood shoulder to shoulder with the leaders of that convention and demanded that the trust and corporations call off their paid lobbyists and let the representatives of the people attend to the business of the people. Mr. Haskell is in sympathy with the constitution. He helped to make it and believes in it, and if elected will enforce it. As a candidate for the office of governor he stands for something, he represents something, in that he is the embodiment of the spirit which pervades the constitution from preamble to signature, and is content to make service to the people his highest purpose.

Democracy is not a new fad with C. N. Haskell. In 1896 and 1900 when prominent men were ducking on the money question, C. N. Haskell stood as one of the strongest supporters of W. J. Bryan in Ohio. When Tom L. Johnson of Cleveland ran for governor on the Democratic ticket on a platform declaring for two-cent railroad fares, C. N. Haskell was one of his chief supporters, and when an outraged people demanded that the tax laws of that state be revised, C. N. Haskell was one of the foremost advocates of a just railroad appraisalment. Haskell's Democracy doesn't date from yesterday, and his support of the proposed constitution is not given for political expediency.

There are many other reasons why C. N. Haskell should be nominated for governor by the Democracy of the new state and these the Times-Democrat will try to give from time to time. This newspaper has no quarrel with Mr. Cruce and we hope to be able to go through this campaign without saying anything that will injure the feelings of Mr. Cruce's friends, but unless Mr. Cruce indulges in a house cleaning at his political headquarters in Oklahoma City we may be compelled to tell who his managers are now and what they were in the past, and go into detail which can only prove amusing to our Republican friends and not beneficial to the Democratic party.

Yes, The Times-Democrat is for C. N. Haskell for the Democratic nomination for governor and will give him its loyal support. He is the man for the place and ought to be nominated. If C. N. Haskell is not nominated we will regret it, but The Times-Democrat will support the party nominee. Muskogee Times-Democrat, Friday, April 19--Adv.

ROY HOFFMAN

For the United States Senate from the Oklahoma side of the state, subject to the decision of the Democratic primaries on May 23, 1907.

MUNICIPAL TOWNSHIPS CREATED IN PONTOTOC.

The election ordinance adopted Monday by the constitutional convention creates the municipal townships and commissioner districts in full conformity with the division made by the board of three at Ada ten days ago, a full description of which divisions were published in The News—except for these slight changes: The city of Ada is made a township within itself, the rural section surrounding Ada and according to the original division constituting part of Ada township is made another township named Chickasaw. Likewise the town of Roff is made a distinct township, and the surrounding country according to the original division belonging to Roff is made Fitzhugh township.

Commissioner districts are designated by number as follows: No. 1, the northeast section of the county; No. 2, the northwest section; No. 3, the southern section. In District 1 T. J. Chambers is appointed county commissioner; in No. 2 J. J. Burton; in No. 3 T. J. Denton. Sam McClure is made county clerk. These men are clothed with powers of like named officers in Oklahoma counties for the purposes of the first election only. It is their duty to divide the county into voting precincts and to designate voting places (in doing which of course they adopt the work of the county committee for the purposes of the democratic primary) to provide ballots, to generally superintend the Aug. 6th election, and to canvass the returns for county officers.

This change was made necessary by the Oklahoma law which makes a separate township of every town or city having as much as 1,500 population. This law was not well known on the East side, and the consequence was, after the delegates assembled in Guthrie last week changes had to be made in division maps of nearly all Indian Territory counties to conform them to that law.

The election ordinance designates the various townships both by name and by number as follows: No. 1, Ada; 2, Chickasaw; 3, Francis; 4, Allen; 5, Stonewall; 6, Roff; 7, Fitzhugh; 8, Midland; 9, Maxwell.

As is now well understood two justices of the peace and two constables are to be elected in each of the townships above enumerated.

AND STILL THE NEWS GROWS.

The Linotype machine which several months ago The News promised its patrons has at last arrived. The delay in delivery was attributable, some may be interested to learn, to the San Francisco disaster. Many of these typesetting machines were destroyed in the ruins of Frisco's big newspaper plants. The large orders for machines with which to replace those destroyed took precedence with the manufacturers over The News order for one.

But it's here at last and in a few days will be setting all the type used by The News. Being a ponderous and intricate piece of machinery, much care and pains are necessary to install it. By next week all accessory appliances and supplies will be here and this thing that works like it had brains will start to operating.

As is well known The News has never lagged in the matter of enterprise—either enterprise within its own walls or that of the community at large. This Mergenthaler Linotype entails a total investment of $4,000. It should be a source of pride to the citizens of Pontotoc county, the fact that with this machine added The News is the best equipped newspaper plant in the Territory, outside of Muskogee, South McAlester and Ardmore. It represents a greater investment and carries a larger payroll than any other industrial plant that runs all the year round in Pontotoc county.

While The News has always done its best, its best is going to be bigger. The Linotype will enable us to do more and faster and better printing. As a consequence the newspaper will be bigger and better.

This paper does not purpose to stop growing till Ada and Pontotoc county do; that probably will be never.

Krieger for Commissioner.

F. C. Krieger, who announces for the office of county commissioner for the Western district of Pontotoc, is a well known citizen of the town of Center. Fifty-five years of age, for thirty-four years he has lived in the Choctaw-Chickasaw country. He started out on the farm, and he has stuck to it.

One of the prominent intermarried citizens of our county, Mr. Krieger will be a taxpayer, and he will know what ought to be done with the taxes. While he favors an economical administration of affairs, still he believes in progress. He feels that if we are to get any benefits from statehood, we must have some good roads and good schools, and at the earliest possible moment. Though good roads and bridges and schools will cost much money, he thinks in these three matters there should be no niggardness displayed.

Mr. Krieger is a good Democrat and wants office not otherwise than at the hands of the Democratic party. Those voters who may not know his standing, he refers them to the business men of Ada, with many of whom he has dealt, or to the people generally of the Center community.

Mr. Krieger would make a good, safe, sound commissioner.

Carnival Is Ready.

The Carnival company making Ada this week is now ready for performance and will put on their first shows tonight at 7:00 o'clock.

Happy Jack Murray, who was in Ada recently advertising for T. J. Chambers, and who made such a hit with his foolish pranks and high kicking, is with the carnival people. He has been advertising on the street this afternoon.

your cough is only in the throat and does not trouble you now, don't think that it needs no attention. When it has not had much of a start is the time to check it. SPLENDID TO USE.

This is the month to rid the system of Blood disorders of all kinds, of which Rheumatism is the most prevalent symptom and hardest to overcome during the winter months, when the Kidneys have failed to filter out the uric acid and other waste matter.

A well known authority writes that the worst forms of Rheumatism, Blood disorders, also Kidney and Bladder weakness are often readily relieved and prevented during an entire year by taking for a little while one teaspoonful of the following mixture after meals and at bedtime, viz.: Fluid Extract Dandelion one-half ounce, Compound Kargon one ounce, Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla three ounces.

A local druggist states that these are harmless ingredients, which any good prescription pharmacy can supply and anyone can easily mix them at home by shaking in a bottle.

It is said by many of the old folks that the above mixture, if taken during this month, will add years to life and prevent many a sick and miserable day during the year.

Why have a torpid liver when Herbine, the only liver regulator will help you? There is no reason why you should suffer from dyspepsia, constipation, chills and fever or any liver complaints, when Herbine will cure you. F. C. Waite, Westville, Fla., writes: "I was sick for a month with chills and fever, and after taking two bottles of Herbine am well and healthy." Sold by G. M. Ramsey.

OVERDRAFTS

It is becoming well known by business men that overdrafts, whether large or small, are not approved by the comptroller of the currency. The large central banks allow overdrafts only in a very small way, and this, it matters not how small, is not approved by the powers that be. This unbusinesslike habit of overdrafts grew out of advancing on moving products, such as cotton, grain and fat stock on the move. The overdraft system is wrong and the man whose account is always overdrawn is the man who spends more money than he makes and will finally have no bank account.

CLASS EXERCISES.

The Seven Graduates did Splendidly—
The News Extends Congratulations.

In the auditorium of the new Methodist church Monday evening was held the class exercises of the high school. A large and appreciative audience of Ada's best citizens was present to enjoy the delightful occasion and encourage the graduating class. A damp cold evening was not enough to keep the house from being filled.

At 8:00 o'clock the class of seven members with their two teachers, marched upon the platform and seated themselves while soft music was pouring itself into the ears of the audience. The class of five young men and two young ladies made an excellent appearance with their well rounded physiques and countenances beaming with intelligence. It was a delight to see these young people standing at the gateway of life's activities.

After the invocation by Rev. Robertson, Presnal Sugg, the saluatorian, in a short but well worded speech presented some gems of thought on character. He dealt with the importance of early forming a character that would stand any test. Presnal deeply impressed the audience. Then was given the history of the class by James George. His individual way of presentation, his sparks of humor, and his delineation of the character of each member brought the house to irresistible applause. The class poet, Miss Sims, in rhythmic flow, next sang the laudations of her classmates and teachers. The poetry and thought so harmonized that the words fell upon the listening ears pleasingly. The house made no attempt to withhold the applause they knew she so much merited. The veil of the future was drawn aside by Philip Thompson, and we were permitted to look upon the finished life's work of each member as recorded in the great Book of Deeds. The prophecy in the most part dealt with the members in the professions to which they aspire and pictured for each with varying fortunes ultimate success. The trend of the prophecy was decidedly new and interesting. Miss Torbett read an essay on the well chosen subject of "Woman." She did her subject honor and dull and unappreciative, indeed, would have been the woman present, who did not feel her heart fill with pride and appreciation of her womanhood as she listened to the thoughtful and true words of the class essayist. It was beautiful in thought, in rhetoric superb. The class orator, Gilbert Reed, delivered an oration on "Our New State," a subject in which all are deeply interested. He gave something of the vast resources, of the class of citizens, and of the admirable location of the state, showing how it must, in spite of every drawback,

WEAVER RETURNS

Ada's Delegate to Constitutional Convention At Home.

Carlton Weaver returned from Guthrie this morning on the Katy. When asked concerning the closing days of the convention he said: "There was considerable work necessitated by the recent supreme court decision relating to the legality of the supreme election board created by the constitutional convention. In order to come within the pale of the court's holdings we had to repeal the first and build another in which each new county was apportioned into sub-divisions, and a board of county commissioners and a county clerk for each provided for. This ordinance alone is as long as the constitution itself."

Continuing, Mr. Weaver said: "The finished constitution has been formally signed and is now being printed preparatory to distribution."

HOME-MADE OIL BURNER.

Simple Device Easily Made Which Will Work.

By the following directions an efficient oil burner may be made at home: Into a one-inch tee, A, place a three-eighths inch elbow and run babbitt around it to hold it in place, and also to keep the steam from leaking into the oil. Screw a three-eighths-inch pipe, long enough to reach through the boiler front into the furnace, into the elbow. Over the three-eighths-inch pipe screw a one-inch pipe, B, three inches longer than the other, into the tee, so that the smaller pipe is exactly in the center of the larger one.

Pipe C runs from the tee to the oil tank; pipe D to a steam main or oil tank, and E is a valve to regulate the amount of oil and steam or air.

Construction of Oil Burner.

Partly cover the grates, so too much air cannot come through, says the Engineers' Review, and build the bridge wall open, as illustrated. Compressed air is all right to use on getting up steam, but steam is better after it is raised to force the oil into the furnace.

A CLEVER ENGINEER.

Air Bubbles Show Leak in Pipe.

In a system where a brick-lined well, E, was supplied at all times with clean, pure water through a pipe, D, running out into Lake Ontario a distance of 500 or 600 feet, a leak developed in the submerged pipe, so that after a windstorm muddy water found its way into the well. Divers tightened up the joints, but could not cure nor locate the trouble, says Power.

In the system F is the suction pipe from the pumps and C is a heavy cast iron valve used to regulate or close off the flow of lake water into the well. The engineer connected an air pipe, H, to valve C and had air pumped into the pipe. After the pump had been working for some time he went out into the lake in a canoe, and soon discovered a string of bubbles rising to the surface as shown at A, about 200 feet from shore in about 20 feet of water. The diver descended at that point, found the break and repaired it.

Sporting Gossip.

Thomas Hueston of St. Louis retains the world's continuous pool championship as the result of his match with Jerome Keogh of Buffalo. Hueston made 600 points while Keogh had 497 at the end of the three nights' play. Hueston declares that he favors a change in the rules of championship pool matches. His contention is that the present rule, which makes it necessary for the limit of 600 balls to be played in blocks of 200 for three consecutive nights, is too long, at least the nightly string required. As Hueston pointed out, it required practically five-hour sessions at the table each night to count the prescribed block of 200 balls, which was too great a physical tax upon the players. "It is my belief that four nights' play of say 125 balls each night would afford a better and more interesting contest," Hueston said. "True, it would shorten the total to 50 balls, but the contest would be better sustained. Even four nights, of 150 balls, would be far better than the present arrangement. It is my plan to have the rule amended at the earliest possible moment. In this Keogh joins me. It will be necessary for all holders of the championships to concur in this, but I believe they are with me and that a new rule will be made." Keogh said that he not only favored shortening the nightly block of points but also that the present method of inserting stiff leather pockets in the table be done away with. He pointed to the fact that a number of promising sessions at the table were terminated for him because of the ball rebounding from the leather as from rubber and rolling on the table after it had been squarely pocketed.

"I never crow," said Earl Moore, the Cleveland American twirler. "Baseball is too fickle an occupation. One day you pitch an arm off; you have control and speed and everything else that a pitcher should have, and still you lose. Another day you just lob the ball over the plate and give plenty of bases on balls and even then get away with victory. A pitcher doesn't have to run against many experiences like these before he is ready to admit that, come what may, he has no reason to grow chesty. The same thing applies with some variation to ball players in general. Stars come and go and are forgotten. To-day you're at the top of the heap and the crowd cheers and declares you are the only ball player that ever lived. To-morrow some other man may be filling your job and if he makes a good showing you are forgotten as thoroughly as though you were but a passing fancy. Star players have their part in the game, and they are drawing cards, but after all it's the great old game that most people go out to see, and a winning team, no matter what its composition with respect to the individuals, is the thing a crowd most admires."

In the future or for a year at least the two great American sports, baseball and bowling, are apt to be closely allied. Cincinnati had everything her own way at the convention of the American Bowling congress at St. Louis and elected Garry Herrmann of Cincinnati, the baseball magnate, president over President Bryson of Indianapolis, former president, and chose Herrmann's home city for the 1908 convention. The secretaryship contest threatened to be a warm affair for a time, but the withdrawal from the race of Charles D. Wilson and Edwin Pfeiffer, the two Chicago candidates, before the balloting began simplified matters and Abe Langtry of Milwaukee won with 78 votes, as compared to 40 and 17 for H. G. Rautenberg and D. J. Sweeney of St. Louis respectively. Frank Pasdeloup of Chicago had no opposition for the treasuryship and was chosen for that office for the fifth time. It was decided by the congress that in the future all bowling tournaments shall begin before Feb. 10. A national bowling commission made up of Col. J. H. Haager of Louisville, Robert H. Bryson of Indianapolis, two former presidents of the A. B. C., and J. W. McCormick of Toledo was appointed to meet with delegations from the National and Western Bowling associations to bring about uniformity in the playing rules and prevent conflicts in tournament dates.

WHEN JEWELS NEED CLEANING.

Various Ornaments Require Different Modes of Treatment.

Most gold ornaments, when plain or worked and unadorned with gems, should be washed in warm soapsuds from time to time, excellent results being obtained if a few drops of sal volatile are added to the hot water before making the lather. In the case of chains composed of close links, which are most apt to harbor dirt and dust, few remedies equal that of placing them to soak in a bottle half full of warm soapsuds mixed with a little prepared chalk.

Diamonds, sapphires, rubies and emeralds are wonderfully restored if they are washed periodically in a little sal volatile and water, the surface being afterward polished with a clean chamomile leather or a soft piece of silk. Precious stones in general are usually improved if they are put away in box-wood sawdust instead of being inclosed in velvet-lined cases.

Turquoises must on no account be touched with water or kept in a damp place, while oil or grease is equally fatal to pearls, whether real or imitation.

In cases where real pearls have lost their luster, a method of treating them is that of laying them to soak for a few days in strong brine and water, many old authorities recommending, however, the curious baking treatment, the pearls being inclosed in a lump of dough and then baked in a slow oven.

Jade ornaments soon lose their polish if they are neglected, and to remedy this few species equal the application of a paste of chalk and water.

Coral can be successfully cleansed by placing the ornaments in a saucepan full of boiling water and adding a few pieces of white soap and soda. They should be boiled for a few moments, then rinsed in tepid water and laid to dry on white paper.

FOR HOME-MADE CANDIES.

Some Delicious Confections That Are Not Costly.

Almond taffy—To make a almond taffy boil together one-half pint of water and one pound of brown sugar for ten minutes. Blanch and slice through the middle one and one-half ounces of almonds; stir them in the sirup with two ounces of butter. Let the mixture boil hard for ten minutes. Pour on a well buttered dish to the thickness of one-half inch.

Candied Walnuts—Put one and one-half cupsful of granulated sugar in a saucepan with one-half cupful of water. Stir until the sugar is dissolved; then boil until the sirup will spin a short hair when dropped from the tines of a fork. Drop in one pint of shelled walnut meats, and when the sugar again comes to the boiling point take from the fire and stir until the sirup changes to white candy, a portion of which will adhere to the nuts.

"Portiere" Is a Problem Often.

It is not always easy to secure material for portieres that is at once pretty and inexpensive. One woman who has been searching the town over for a fabric combining the two qualities was almost in despair when a friend, a decorator, suggested that she get mocha canvas for her sleeping room doors and velveteen in a soft reseda shade for her library doorway. As the walls were green the colors harmonized charmingly and all told did not cost more than $12 for the two pairs.

The canvas is loosely woven and resembles burlap in appearance, though much softer and hangs much more gracefully. It costs 50 cents a yard and is very wide. The velveteen, which is also double width, can be obtained in a number of soft colorings, and while handsome is not so rich looking that it kills everything else in the room. It is especially effective with mahogany or dark oak and with Circassian walnut.

Proper Dish Washing.

The dirty dishes and plates should be put into a dish-tub of warm water at once when taken from the table; by this means half the trouble of washing-up will be saved, as it will prevent the gravy-juice, mustard, etc., from cooling and drying on the plates and dishes. When you commence washing them, add sufficient boiling water to make it very hot, and with a dishcloth wash on both sides, one at a time. Then rinse in a pan of cold water, or under a running tap; this makes them clean and bright looking, and removes any little grease that might remain. Now put them in a rack, or on one side to drain.

Buttered Apples.

Pare and core eight tart apples. Put them in a baking dish and fill the hollow of each with sugar and a tiny pinch of cinnamon or mace, if liked. As they cook baste them with a tablespoonful of butter melted in a cupful of hot water. Cover the apples. Boil a cupful of sugar and half a cupful of water and a blade of mace five minutes. When the apples are tender—not broken—pour this over them after they are removed from the dish.

In Peeling Apples.

If a silver knife is used instead of a steel one the fingers will not become black, as acid from the apple unites with iron, but not with silver.

Lemons

Which have dried and hardened again will become quite soft if allowed to soak in cold water.

GATHERED SMILES

NOT EQUAL TO THE TEST.

"It's all rank nonsense to talk about the men of this day and generation not having the courage and valor of the men of the olden times," said Mr. Juniper, wrathfully, as he slammed down the paper he had been reading.

"People don't seem to remember," he added, "that there's nothing in this day to call forth exhibitions of high courage and true fearlessness. Let the occasion arise, let the country be in peril, let traitors insult the flag, let anything happen to put men to the test, and you would see that we would match in splendid courage the heroes of any age."

Charmed with his own oratory, he burst forth again:

"I only wish I might prove to the world that there is one man in this 'age of weakness,' as it is called, who is ready to do or dare anything if need be, to face any foe or danger, to—"

"I'm truly glad to hear you say so, Henry," said Mrs. Juniper, "for you know that Bridget, the cook, was to be discharged to-day, and I haven't the courage to do it. If you'll just go down now and—"

"Why, it's almost two o'clock," said Juniper, hurriedly. "I forgot that I had an important engagement at two o'clock in town. I must be off this minute. Just tell that fiend that she'll have to go, that's all. I'm off."

Made from Skimmed Milk.

"Why, I see billiard balls, boxes for handkerchiefs, ink wells, combs, etc., are now made from skimmed milk," said the dealer in the lacteal fluid.

"And one other thing you forget to mention is made out of skimmed milk," said the lady as he handed out the tickets.

"What's that, ma'am?"

"Money!"—Yonkers statesman.

Her Helpful Suggestion.

"I have written an exquisite poem," said Bardsley, "but I can't think of a title for it. You see it is one of those vague, impressionistic things that are so beautiful and yet so elusive that it is hard to define them."

"Oh, well," replied his wife, "why don't you label it 'Aftermath'! That seems to fit almost any old kind of a poem."—Chicago Record-Herald.

HOUSEHOLD ART.

Mrs. Hubby—I don't think I can, love; but do let me have them. I can put a pink bow on each side and a touch of paint. They will look ever so nice!—Scraps.

Their Use.

"I suppose," said the studious man, "that the drum and cymbals were among the first musical instruments to be invented."

"Yes," answered Mr. Cumrox. "It probably didn't take them long to realize that they needed something to put a crash in every now and then and wake people up."—Washington Star.

TUNNELS BUILT ABOVE GROUND

Two underground depots and a considerable length of connecting tunnel, for the use of the Metropolitan subway lines of Paris, are being constructed on a public street, and when completed will be sunk into position. In other words, this unusual piece of engineering work consists in building a tunnel in the open air.

The main line of the Metropolitan railway crosses the two branches of the Seine and the Isle of Cite, which divide the river, at a point just south of the Bridge of St. Michel. That portion of the line which crosses the island is being built in the street, where the great steel framework ris-

work will be placed a thick lining of concrete to exclude water, while the sides and arch will be covered with white enameled tiling and the floor with cut stone blocks and slabs, upon which the track will be laid. When the metal section is finished, excavation will be made beneath it and the great mass allowed to gradually settle to permanent position at the proper depth.

Two depots are included in the work described, both located on the island. These are obtained by enlarging the tunnel to a ring-shaped construction, with provision for ticket offices, waiting rooms, etc. One of the depots ing to the top of the third story of abutting buildings attracts much attention. The sections which are to cross the river have already been built on land and floated to location, where they are being sunk to the required level below the bottom of the river. The land and water sections mentioned are 5,800 feet in length.

The illustration conveys a good idea of the construction. When completed the inside measurement of the tunnel will be 78 feet wide by 56 feet high. There are two land sections 1,500 feet and 1,800 feet long, respectively. Inside the steel frame-with 500 feet of tunnel weighs 18,000 tons. The reader will readily appreciate the nicety of operation by which all these metal sections are to be sunk to an exact level and then bolted together where the end of one length joins that of the next. The project is one of the largest and most interesting engineering undertakings in the world at the present time. When the tunnel and depots have been sunk, the street will be replaced and paved as before. All the riveting, says Popular Mechanics, is being done with pneumatic hammers of American make.

Oil Burning Engines.

An American company is building for the Mexican Central railroad a number of oil-burning freight engines of an unusual type. They are eight-coupled engines with a leading pony truck. The boiler has 2,168 square feet of heating surface. The total weight available for adhesion is about 110 tons, the ratio of tractive effort to adhesive weight being one to four and three-quarters. A boiler pressure of 200 pounds to the square inch is used. The fuel is crude petroleum, which is vaporized by a steam jet, and deflected against a soapstone arch in the fire-box.

Pocket Telephones.

Vienna policemen, it is said, are provided with pocket telephones which they can connect in a second to the wire in special call boxes placed in all important streets.

Big Block of Granite.

The largest and heaviest single block of granite ever sent to Canada from the United States has just been shipped from a Barre, Vermont, quarry to Cote de Neiges, P. Q., a suburb of Montreal. The stone is three and a quarter feet square and 32 feet long, and weighs 32 tons. It was consigned to J. Brunet, the sculptor, by whom it was fashioned into a memorial monument to be erected in honor of the late Raymond Prefontaine, who was Canadian minister of marine and fisheries.

German Exports of Steel.

The German exports of iron and steel last year represent a total of 3,666,278 tons, against 3,358,420 in 1905, an increase of 307,854 tons, or nine per cent. The excess of exports over imports amounted to 2,976,198 tons, against 2,981,425, a decrease of 5,227 tons, or 0.2 per cent.

H. Woodard Kills His Brother-in-Law Gus Pool!

At five o'clock Tuesday afternoon a pistol shot rang out on Main street and people were horrified to learn that H. Woodard had shot through the heart his brother-in-law, Gus Pool.

The shooting occurred just as The News goes to press and scant particulars are obtainable. The tragedy occurred in front of Foster's confectionery, and is reported to be a sequel to a dispute over money matters. Some months ago Mr. Pool instituted suit for considerable amount against Mr. Woodard, it is said, alleging it to be due for wages and borrowed funds.

The wounded man expired in a few moments. Mr. Woodard made no attempt to resist arrest.

Considering the prominence and the kinship of the men, the killing is a terrible shock to the community.

CHARLES N. HASKELL FOR GOVERNOR---WHY?

Under the above heading The Muskogee Times-Democrat espouses the cause of Haskell for governor in an exhaustive editorial which follows:

The Times-Democrat is for C. N. Haskell of Muskogee for governor.

This paper has refrained from expressing preference as between Democratic candidates for office previous to the nominating convention until now. The reason for this has been apparent. It is not the province of a newspaper to attempt to dictate its party candidates. The selection of candidates belongs to the people and under ordinary circumstances it is unwise for a party paper to dip in before the nominations are made. However, developments of the past two weeks within the new state have forced this newspaper to depart from its fixed purpose of neutrality as between Democrats.

The Daily Oklahoman of Oklahoma City, one of the largest newspapers in the new state, has seen fit not only to champion the cause of one of the three candidates for governor, but to heap personal abuse upon the other two candidates. The Oklahoman has been especially bitter in its attacks upon C. N. Haskell of this city. The attacks upon Mr. Haskell by the Oklahoman are the result of political differences between Roy Stafford, the editor of the Oklahoman, and Mr. Haskell. Stafford has become manager of the Cruce campaign and has opened his batteries of mire and filth in an attempt to besmirch the character of Mr. Haskell in the vain hope of hiding his candidacy behind a cloud of dirt.

Mr. Haskell has proven himself a loyal Democrat. He has been one of the Indian Territory's most progressive state builders. He has rendered inestimable service to this city. He is entitled to the support of his neighbors and the party paper of his home town.

There are many reasons why C. N. Haskell should be the Democratic candidate for governor. In the first place he is the biggest, broadest and most Democratic man before the people of this state. He would make the best governor of the new state. Mr. Haskell's work as a member of the Sequoyah convention and later as a member of the constitutional convention at Guthrie has peculiarly fitted him to act as the first governor of Oklahoma. The new constitution is regarded by fairminded men as a masterpiece of able document in that it conserves the interests of the people and is free from those things which usually stand in the way of the people as the result of corporation politics. Mr. Haskell is in sympathy with every section of the constitution. He was present at all sessions of the convention and voted for every proposition in the document. He understands the measure thoroughly and is acquainted with the sentiment of the people which dictated the different provisions. He knows why they were adopted and what purposes they were intended to promote. Mr. Haskell as a delegate to the constitutional convention listened to the farmers' representatives and then assisted in putting their ideas into the organic law of the new state; he met representatives of Union labor and helped to secure for them the protection they sought; he discussed the needs of the state commercially with representatives of business men's organizations and assisted in writing the best thought from this important element of the community into the constitution; he stood shoulder to shoulder with the leaders of that convention and demanded that the trust and corporations call off their paid lobbyists and let the representatives of the people attend to the business of the people. Mr. Haskell is in sympathy with the constitution. He helped to make it and believes in it, and if elected will enforce it. As a candidate for the office of governor he stands for something, he represents something, in that he is the embodiment of the spirit which pervades the constitution from preamble to signature, and is content to make service to the people his highest purpose.

Democracy is not a new fad with C. N. Haskell. In 1896 and 1900 when prominent men were ducking on the money question, C. N. Haskell stood as one of the strongest supporters of W. J. Bryan in Ohio. When Tom L. Johnson of Cleveland ran for governor on the Democratic ticket on a platform declaring for two-cent railroad fares, C. N. Haskell was one of his chief supporters, and when an outraged people demanded that the tax laws of that state be revised, C. N. Haskell was one of the foremost advocates of a just railroad appraisalment. Haskell's Democracy doesn't date from yesterday, and his support of the proposed constitution is not given for political expediency.

There are many other reasons why C. N. Haskell should be nominated for governor by the Democracy of the new state and these the Times-Democrat will try to give from time to time. This newspaper has no quarrel with Mr. Cruce and we hope to be able to go through this campaign without saying anything that will injure the feelings of Mr. Cruce's friends, but unless Mr. Cruce indulges in a house cleaning at his political headquarters in Oklahoma City we may be compelled to tell who his managers are now and what they were in the past, and go into detail which can only prove amusing to our Republican friends and not beneficial to the Democratic party.

Yes, the Times-Democrat is for C. N. Haskell for the Democratic nomination for governor and will give him its loyal support. He is the man for the place and ought to be nominated. C. N. Haskell is not nominated we will regret it, but the Times-Democrat will support the party nominee. Muskogee Times-Democrat, Friday, April 13-Ad.

CLASS EXERCISES.

The Seven Graduates did Splendidly—

The News Extends Congratulations.

In the auditorium of the new Methodist church Monday evening was held the class exercises of the high school. A large and appreciative audience of Ada's best citizens was present to enjoy the delightful occasion and encourage the graduating class. A damp cold evening was not enough to keep the house from being filled.

At 8:00 o'clock the class of seven members with their two teachers, marched upon the platform and seated themselves while soft music was pouring itself into the ears of the audience. The class of five young men and two young ladies made an excellent appearance with their well rounded physiques and countenances beaming with intelligence. It was a delight to see these young people standing at the gateway of life's activities.

After the invocation by Rev. Robertson, Presnal Sugg, the salutarian, in a short but well worded speech presented some gems of thought on character. He dealt with the importance of early forming a character that would stand any test. Presnal deeply impressed the audience. Then was given the history of the class by James George. His individual way of presentation, his sparks of humor, and his delineation of the character of each member brought the house to irresistible applause. The class poet, Miss Sims, in rhythmic flow, next sang the laudations of her classmates and teachers. The poetry and thought so harmonized that the words fell upon the listening ears pleasingly. The house made no attempt to withhold the applause they knew she so much merited. The veil of the future was drawn aside by Philip Thompson, and we were permitted to look upon the finished life's work of each member as recorded in the great Book of Deeds. The prophecy in the most part dealt with the members in the professions to which they aspire and pictured for each with varying fortunes ultimate success. The trend of the prophecy was decidedly new and interesting. Miss Torbett read an essay on the well chosen subject of "Woman." She did her subject honor and dull and unappreciative, indeed, would have been the woman present, who did not feel her heart fill with pride and appreciation of her womanhood as she listened to the thoughtful and true words of the class essayist. It was beautiful in thought, in rhetoric superb. The class orator, Gilbert Reed, delivered an oration on "Our New State," a subject in which all are deeply interested. He gave something of the vast resources, of the class of citizens, and of the admirable location of the state, showing how it must, in spite of every drawback,

WEAVER RETURNS

Ada's Delegate to Constitutional Convention At Home.

Carlton Weaver returned from Guthrie this morning on the Katy. When asked concerning the closing days of the convention he said: "There was considerable work necessitated by the recent supreme court decision relating to the legality of the supreme election board created by the constitutional convention. In order to come within the pale of the court's holdings we had to repeal the first and build another in which each new county was apportioned into sub-divisions, and a board of county commissioners and a county clerk for each provided for. This ordinance alone is as long as the constitution itself."

Construction of Oil Burner.

A CLEVER ENGINEER.

Air Bubbles Show Leak in Pipe.

In a system where a brick-lined well, E, was supplied at all times with clean, pure water through a pipe, D, running out into Lake Ontario a distance of 500 or 600 feet, a leak developed in the submerged pipe, so that after a windstorm muddy water found its way into the well. Divers tightened up the joints, but could not cure nor locate the trouble, says Power.

In the system F is the suction pipe from the pumps and C is a heavy cast iron valve used to regulate or close off the flow of lake water into the well. The engineer connected an air pipe, H, to valve C and had air pumped into the pipe. After the pump had been working for some time he went out into the lake in a canoe, and soon discovered a string of bubbles rising to the surface as shown at A, about 200 feet from shore in about 20 feet of water. The diver descended at that point, found the break and repaired it.

TUNNELS BUILT ABOVE GROUND

Two underground depots and a considerable length of connecting tunnel, for the use of the Metropolitan subway lines of Paris, are being constructed on a public street, and when completed will be sunk into position. In other words, this unusual piece of engineering work consists in building a tunnel in the open air.

The main line of the Metropolitan railway crosses the two branches of the Seine and the Isle of Cite, which divide the river, at a point just south of the Bridge of St. Michel. That portion of the line which crosses the island is being built in the street, where the great steel framework ris-

work will be placed a thick lining of concrete to exclude water, while the sides and arch will be covered with white enameled tiling and the floor with cut stone blocks and slabs, upon which the track will be laid. When the metal section is finished, excavation will be made beneath it and the great mass allowed to gradually settle to permanent position at the proper depth.

Two depots are included in the work described, both located on the island. These are obtained by enlarging the tunnel to a ring-shaped construction, with provision for ticket offices, waiting rooms, etc. One of the depots

ing to the top of the third story of abutting buildings attracts much attention. The sections which are to cross the river have already been built on land and floated to location, where they are being sunk to the required level below the bottom of the river. The land and water sections mentioned are 5,800 feet in length.

The illustration conveys a good idea of the construction. When completed the inside measurement of the tunnel will be 78 feet wide by 56 feet high. There are two land sections, 1,500 feet and 1,800 feet long, respectively. Inside the steel frame-

Oil Burning Engines.
An American company is building for the Mexican Central railroad a number of oil-burning freight engines of an unusual type. They are eight-coupled engines with a leading pony truck. The boiler has 2,168 square feet of heating surface. The total weight available for adhesion is about 110 tons, the ratio of tractive effort to adhesive weight being one to four and three-quarters. A boiler pressure of 200 pounds to the square inch is used. The fuel is crude petroleum, which is vaporized by a steam jet, and deflected against a soapstone arch in the fire-box.

Pocket Telephones.
Vienna policemen, it is said, are provided with pocket telephones which they can connect in a second to the wire in special call boxes placed in all important streets.

Big Block of Granite.
The largest and heaviest single block of granite ever sent to Canada from the United States has just been shipped from a Barre, Vermont, quarry to Cote de Neiges, P. Q., a suburb of Montreal. The stone is three and a quarter feet square and 32 feet long, and weighs 32 tons. It was consigned to J. Brunet, the sculptor, by whom it was fashioned into a memorial monument to be erected in honor of the late Raymond Preontaine, who was Canadian minister of marine and fisheries.

German Exports of Steel.
The German exports of iron and steel last year represent a total of 3,668,278 tons, against 3,358,420 in 1905, an increase of 307,858 tons, or nine per cent. The excess of exports over imports amounted to 2,876,198 tons, against 2,981,425, a decrease of 5,227 tons, or 0.3 per cent.

Sporting Gossip.

Thomas Hueston of St. Louis retains the world's continuous pool championship as the result of his match with Jerome Keogh of Buffalo. Hueston made 600 points while Keogh had 497 at the end of the three nights' play. Hueston declares that he favors a change in the rules of championship pool matches. His contention is that the present rule, which makes it necessary for the limit of 600 balls to be played in blocks of 200 for three consecutive nights, is too long, at least the nightly string required. As Hueston pointed out, it required practically five-hour sessions at the table each night to count the prescribed block of 200 balls, which was too great a physical tax upon the players. "It is my belief that four nights' play of say 125 balls each night would afford a better and more interesting contest," Hueston said. "True, it would shorten the total to 50 balls, but the contest would be better sustained. Even four nights, of 150 balls, would be far better than the present arrangement. It is my plan to have the rule amended at the earliest possible moment. In this Keogh joins me. It will be necessary for all holders of the championships to concur in this, but I believe they are with me and that a new rule will be made." Keogh said that he not only favored shortening the nightly block of points but also that the present method of inserting stiff leather pockets in the table be done away with. He pointed to the fact that a number of promising

"I never crow," said Earl Moore, the Cleveland American twirler. "Baseball is too fickle an occupation. One day you pitch an arm off; you have control and speed and everything else that a pitcher should have, and still you lose. Another day you just lob the ball over the plate and give plenty of bases on balls and even then get away with victory. A pitcher doesn't have to run against many experiences like these before he is ready to admit that, come what may, he has no reason to grow chesty. The same thing applies with some variation to ball players in general. Stars come and go and are forgotten. To-day you're at the top of the heap and the crowd cheers and declares you are the only ball player that ever lived. To-morrow some other man may be filling your job and if he makes a good showing you are forgotten as thoroughly as though you were but a passing fancy. Star players have their part in the game, and they are drawing cards, but after all it's the great old game that most people go out to see, and a winning team, no matter what its composition with respect to the individuals, is the thing a crowd most admires."

In the future or for a year at least the two great American sports, baseball and bowling, are apt to be closely allied. Cincinnati had everything her own way at the convention of the American Bowling congress at St. Louis and elected Garry Herrmann of Cincinnati, the baseball magnate, president over President Bryson of Indianapolis, former president, and chose Herrmann's home city for the 1908 convention. The secretaryship contest threatened to be a warm affair for a time, but the withdrawal from the race of Charles D. Wilson and Edwin Peifer, the two Chicago candidates, before the balloting began simplified matters and Abe Langtry of Milwaukee won with 78 votes, as compared to 40 and 17 for H. G. Rautenberg and D. J. Sweeney of St. Louis respectively. Frank Pasdeloup of Chicago had no opposition for the treasury and was chosen for that office for the fifth time. It was decided by the congress that in the future all bowling tournaments shall begin before Feb. 10. A national bowling commission made up of Col. J. H. Haeger of Louisville, Robert H. Bryson of Indianapolis, two former presidents of the A. B. C., and J. W. McCormick of Toledo was appointed to meet with delegations from the National and Western Bowling associations to bring about uniformity in the playing rules and prevent conflicts in tournament dates.

WHEN JEWELS REQUIRE DIFFERENT Modes of Treatment.

Most gold ornaments, when plain or worked and unadorned with gems, should be washed in warm soapsuds from time to time, excellent results being obtained if a few drops of sal volatile are added to the hot water before making the lather. In the case of chains composed of close links, which are most apt to harbor dirt and dust, few remedies equal that of placing them to soak in a bottle half full of warm soapsuds mixed with a little prepared chalk.

Diamonds, sapphires, rubies and emeralds are wonderfully restored if they are washed periodically in a little sal volatile and water, the surface being afterward polished with a clean chamomile leather or a soft piece of silk. Precious stones in general are usually improved if they are put away in box-wood sawdust instead of being inclosed in velvet-lined cases.

Turquoises must on no account be touched with water or kept in a damp place, while oil or grease is equally fatal to pearls, whether real or imitation.

In cases where real pearls have lost their luster, a method of treating them is that of laying them to soak for a few days in strong brine and water, many old authorities recommending, however, the curious baking treatment, the pearls being inclosed in a lump of dough and then baked in a slow oven.

Jade ornaments soon lose their polish if they are neglected, and to remedy this few species equal the application of a paste of chalk and water.

Coral can be successfully cleansed by placing the ornaments in a saucepan full of boiling water and adding a few pieces of white soap and soda. They should be boiled for a few moments, then rinsed in tepid water and laid to dry on white paper.

FOR HOME-MADE CANDIES.

Some Delicious Confections That Are Not Costly.

Almond taffy.—To make almond taffy boil together one-half pint of water and one pound of brown sugar for ten minutes. Blanch and slice through the middle one and one-half ounces of almonds; stir them in the syrup with two ounces of butter. Let the mixture boil hard for ten minutes. Pour on a well buttered dish to the thickness of one-half inch.

Candied Walnuts.—Put one and one-half cupsful of granulated sugar in a saucepan with one-half cupful of water. Stir until the sugar is dissolved; then boil until the sirup will spin a short hair when dropped from the tines of a fork. Drop in one pint of shelled walnut meats, and when the sugar again comes to the boiling point take from the fire and stir until the sirup changes to white candy, a portion of which will adhere to the nuts.

It is not always easy to secure material for portieres that is at once pretty and inexpensive. One woman who has been searching the town over for a fabric combining the two qualities was almost in despair when a friend, a decorator, suggested that she get mocha canvas for her sleeping room doors and velvet in a soft reseda shade for her library doorway. As the walls were green the colors harmonized charmingly and all told did not cost more than $12 for the two pairs.

The canvas is loosely woven and resembles burrap in appearance, though much softer and hangs much more gracefully. It costs 50 cents a yard and is very wide. The velvet, which is also double width, can be obtained in a number of soft colorings, and while handsome is not so rich looking that it kills everything else in the room. It is especially effective with mahogany or dark oak and with Circassian walnut.

Proper Dish Washing.
The dirty dishes and plates should be put into a dish-tub of warm water at once when taken from the table; by this means half the trouble of washing-up will be saved, as it will prevent the gravy-juice, mustard, etc., from cooling and drying on the plates and dishes. When you commence washing them, add sufficient boiling water to make it very hot, and with a dishcloth wash on both sides, one at a time. Then rinse in a pan of cold water, or under a running tap; this makes them clean and bright looking, and removes any little grease that might remain. Now put them in a rack, or on one side to drain.

Buttered Apples.
Pare and core eight tart apples. Put them in a baking dish and fill the hollow of each with sugar and a tiny pinch of cinnamon or mace, if liked. As they cook baste them with a tablespoonful of butter melted in a cupful of hot water. Cover the apples. Boil a cupful of sugar and half a cupful of water and a blade of mace five minutes. When the apples are tender—not broken—pour this over them after they are removed from the dish.

In Peeling Apples.
If a silver knife is used instead of a steel one the fingers will not become black, as acid from the apple unites with iron, but not with silver.

Lemons.
Which have dried and hardened again will become quite soft if allowed to soak in cold water.

GATHERED SMILES

NOT EQUAL TO THE TEST.

TORTURE UP TO DATE.

"It's all rank nonsense to talk about the men of this day and generation not having the courage and valor of the men of the olden times," said Mr. Juniper, wrathfully, as he slammed down the paper he had been reading.

"People don't seem to remember," he added, "that there's nothing in this day to call forth exhibitions of high courage and true fearlessness. Let the occasion arise, let the country be in peril, let traitors insult the flag, let anything happen to put men to the test, and you would see that we would match in splendid courage the heroes of any age."

Charmed with his own oratory, he burst forth again:

"I only wish I might prove to the world that there is one man in this 'age of weakness,' as it is called, who is ready to do or dare anything if need be, to face any foe or danger, to—"

"I'm truly glad to hear you say so, Henry," said Mrs. Juniper, "for you know that Bridget, the cook, was to be discharged to-day, and I haven't the courage to do it. If you'll just go down now and—"

"Why, it's almost two o'clock," said Juniper, hurriedly. "I forgot that I had an important engagement at two o'clock in town. I must be off this minute. Just tell that fiend that she'll have to go, that's all. I'm off."

Woman of Experience.

Mrs. Smith—I hear Mrs. Weeds is going to marry a farmer and live in the country.

Mrs. Jones—Well, she ought to make good as a farmer's wife.

Mrs. Smith—I don't see why. She has always lived in town.

Mrs. Jones—True; but as this is her sixth matrimonial venture she evidently knows all about husbandry.—Chicago Daily News.

SAME OLD SYMPTOMS.

Peggy—What do you consider the best sign of spring weather?

Paul—The delicious feeling which makes you want to sit down and watch other people work.—N. O. Times-Democrat.

Friendly Tip.

Hoax—Know that man on the corner?

Marks—No.

Hoax—Well, if you should ever form his acquaintance beware of him. He is one of those men who treat a fellow and then make him pay for it.

Marks—You don't say!

Hoax—Fact. He's a physician.—Chicago Daily News.

Made from Skimmed Milk.

"Why, I see billiard balls, boxes for handkerchiefs, ink wells, combs, etc., are now made from skimmed milk," said the dealer in the lacteal fluid.

"And one other thing you forget to mention is made out of skimmed milk," said the lady as he handed out the tickets.

"What's that, ma'am?"

"Money!"—Yonkers statesman.

Her Helpful Suggestion.

"I have written an exquisite poem," said Bardsley, "but I can't think of a title for it. You see it is one of those vague, impressionistic things that are to beautiful and yet so elusive that it is hard to define them."

"Oh, well," replied his wife, "why don't you label it 'Aftermath'?" That seems to fit almost any old kind of a poem.—Chicago Record-Herald.

HOUSEHOLD ART.

Mr. Hubby—My dear, can you patch these trousers into respectability?

Mrs. Hubby—I don't think I can, love; but do let me have them. I can put a pink bow on each side and a touch of paint. They will look ever so nice!—Scraps.

He pulls his shoulders round in turn—And twists and writhes in vain; His face is pale; his eyelids burn As if in frenzied pain.

No cry for mercy rends the air; He dumbly bears his grief. No help is nigh, and his despair Is almost past belief.

His body shows no trace of blood! He's not upon the rack. . . . It's all because his collar stud Is sliding down his back! —Leslie Thomas, in Royal Magazine

AT THE BOHEMIAN CLUB

Little Smith—Some clumsy idiot sat on my new hat!
Jones—Lucky you weren't in it.—London Tatler.

Couldn't Have Stood It.

Jack—Was yours a long courtship, old fellow?

Will—Gracious, no! My wife had nine little brothers and sisters.

Jack—Really. But what difference did that make?
Will—What difference? Well, if you had to bribe a crowd like that to keep out of the drawing-room every time you went to see your girl, you would soon want to cut down the expense.—Royal Magazine.

His Chance.

"Father," said little Jimmy, as his parent seated himself at the tea table, "I was very near getting to the head of my class to-day."

"How was that, Jimmy?"
"Why, a big word came all the way down to me, and if I could have spelled it I should have gone right up to the top."

Their Use.

"I suppose," said the studious man, "that the drum and cymbals were among the first musical instruments to be invented."

"Yes," answered Mr. Cumrox. "It probably didn't take them long to realize that they needed something to put a crash in every now and then and wake people up."—Washington Star.

Comparing Notes.

Goodwin—Our minister is always preaching against something. If it isn't one thing it's another.

Highchurch—Ours only preaches against one thing.

Goodwin—What is that?

Highchurch—Time.—Chicago Daily News.

TO AVERT SUSPICION.

Lady—I've given you a shilling. What do you want more?

Nomadic Pete—Well, mum, that slop's got his eye on me. Won't yer just take me arm and talk fondly to me, and he'll think I'm yer old man and ank no questions.

No Chance.

Yeast—Ever talk into a phonograph? Crimsonbeak—Never. Tried once, though.

"Why, it's very easy."

"Not for me it wasn't."

"Why not?"

"My wife was there!"—Yonkers Statesman.

Practicing.

Georgie Goodie—That nasty Tommy Tuffin called me a liar to-day, ma.

Mamma—The young villain! What made him say such a thing?

Georgie Goodie—His uncle told him he might be president some day.—Fuck.

Horrible Thought.

She—Don't you feel well, dear?

He—My head feels heavy. Do you suppose those biscuits you made could have gone to my head?—Yonkers Statesman.

H. Woodard Kills His Brother-in-Law Gus Pool!

At five o'clock Tuesday afternoon a pistol shot rang out on Main street and people were horrified to learn that H.
Woodard had shot through the heart
his brother-in-law, Gus Pool.

The shooting occurred just as The News goes to press and scant particulars are obtainable. The tragedy occurred in front of Foster's confectionery, and is reported to be a sequel to a dispute over money matters. Some months ago Mr. Pool instituted suit for considerable amount against Mr. Woodard, it is said, alleging it to be due for wages and borrowed funds.

The wounded man expired in a few moments. Mr. Woodard made no attempt to resist arrest.

Considering the prominence and the kinship of the men, the killing is a terrible shock to the community.

CHARLES N. HASKELL FOR GOVERNOR---WHY?

Under the above heading The Muskogee Times-Democrat espouses the cause of Haskell for governor in an exhaustive editorial which follows:

The Times-Democrat is for C. N.
Haskell of Muskogee for governor.

This paper has refrained from expressing preference as between Democratic candidates for office previous to the nominating convention until now.

The reason for this has been apparent.
It is not the province of a newspaper to attempt to dictate its party candidates. The selection of candidates belong to the people and under ordinary circumstances it is unwise for a party paper to dip in before the nominations are made. However, developments of the past two weeks within the new state have forced this newspaper to depart from its fixed purpose of neutrality as between Democrats.

The Daily Oklahoman of Oklahoma City, one of the largest newspapers in the new state, has seen fit not only to champion the cause of one of the three candidates for governor, but to heap personal abuse upon the other two candidates. The Oklahoman has been especially bitter in its attacks upon C.
N. Haskell of this city. The attacks upon Mr. Haskell by the Oklahoman are the result of political differences between Roy Stafford, the editor of the Oklahoman, and Mr. Haskell.

Stafford has become manager of the Cruce campaign and has opened his batteries of mire and filth in an attempt to besmirch the character of Mr. Haskell in the vain hope of hiding his candidacy behind a cloud of dirt.

Mr. Haskell has proven himself a loyal Democrat. He has been one of the Indian Territory's most progressive state builders. He has rendered inestimable service to this city. He is entitled to the support of his neighbors and the party paper of his home town.

There are many reasons why C. N.
Haskell should be the Democratic candidate for governor. In the first place he is the biggest, broadest and most Democratic man before the people of this state. He would make the best governor of the new state. Mr.
Haskell's work as a member of the Sequoyah convention and later as a member of the constitutional convention at Guthrie has peculiarly fitted him to act as the new governor of the territory. The new constitution is regarded by fair critics as among the best able documents in that it conserves the interests of the people and is free from those things which usually result into the laws of the state as the result of corporation lobbies. Mr. Haskell is in sympathy with every section of the territory. He will present at all sessions of the legislature and voted for every proposition in the constitution.
He understands the business interests and is acquainted with the condition of the people which created the different provisions. He knows why they were adopted and what purposes they were intended to promote. Mr. Haskell as a delegate to the constitutional convention listened to the farmers' representatives and then assisted in putting their ideas into the organic law of the new state; he met representatives of Union labor and helped to secure for them the protection they sought; he discussed the needs of the state com-mercially with representatives of business men's organizations and assisted in writing the best thought from this important element of the community into the constitution; he stood shoulder to shoulder with the leaders of that convention and demanded that the trust and corporations call off their paid lobbyists and let the representatives of the people attend to the business of the people. Mr. Haskell is in sympathy with the constitution. He helped to make it and believes in it, and if elected will enforce it. As a candidate for the office of governor he stands for something, he represents something, in that he is the embodiment of the spirit which pervades the constitution from preamble to signature, and is content to make service to the people his highest purpose.

Democracy is not a new fad with C.
N. Haskell. In 1896 and 1900 when prominent men were ducking on the money question, C. N. Haskell stood as one of the strongest supporters of W.
J. Bryan in Ohio. When Tom L. Johnson of Cleveland ran for governor on the Democratic ticket on a platform declaring for two-cent railroad fares, C.
N. Haskell was one of his chief supporters, and when an outraged people demanded that the tax laws of that state be revised, C. N. Haskell was one of the foremost advocates of a just railroad appraisalment. Haskell's Democracy doesn't date from yesterday, and his support of the proposed constitution is not given for political expediency.

There are many other reasons why C.
N. Haskell should be nominated for governor by the Democracy of the new state and these the Times-Democrat will try to give from time to time.

This newspaper has no quarrel with Mr. Cruce and we hope to be able to go through this campaign without saying anything that will injure the feelings of Mr. Cruce's friends, but unless Mr.
Cruce indulges in a house cleaning at his political headquarters in Oklahoma City we may be compelled to tell who his managers are now and what they were in the past, and go into detail which can only prove amusing to our Republican friends and not beneficial to the Democratic party.

Yes, The Times-Democrat is for C.
N. Haskell for the Democratic nomination for governor and will give him its loyal support. He is the man for the place and ought to be nominated.
If C. N. Haskell is not nominated we will regret it, but The Times-Democrat will support the party nominee. Member Times-Democrat, Friday, April 19-107.

ROY HOFFMAN

For the United States Senate from the Oklahoma side of the state, subject to the decision of the Democratic primaries on May 23, 1907.

MUNICIPAL TOWNSHIPS CREATED IN PONTOTOC.

The election ordinance adopted Monday by the constitutional convention creates the municipal townships and commissioner districts in full conformity with the division made by the board of three at Ada ten days ago, a full description of which divisions were published in The News—except for these slight changes: The city of Ada is made a township within itself, the rural section surrounding Ada and according to the original division constituting part of Ada township is made another township named Chickasaw. Likewise the town of Roff is made a distinct township, and the surrounding country according to the original division belonging to Roff is made Fitzhugh township.

Commissioner districts are designated by number as follows: No. 1, the northeast section of the county; No. 2, the northwest section; No. 3, the southern section. In District 1 T. J. Chambers is appointed county commissioner; in No. 2 J. J. Burton; in No. 3 T. J. Denton. Sam McClure is made county clerk. These men are clothed with powers of like named officers in Oklahoma counties for the purposes of the first election only. It is their duty to divide the county into voting precincts and to designate voting places (in doing which of course they adopt the work of the county committee for the purposes of the democratic primary) to provide ballots, to generally superintend the Aug. 6th election, and to canvass the returns for county officers.

This change was made necessary by the Oklahoma law which makes a separate township of every town or city having as much as 1,500 population. This law was not well known on the East side, and the consequence was, after the delegates assembled in Guthrie last week changes had to be made in division maps of nearly all Indian Territory counties to conform them to that law.

The election ordinance designates the various townships both by name and by number as follows: No. 1, Ada; 2, Chickasaw; 3, Francis; 4, Allen; 5, Stonewall; 6, Roff; 7, Fitzhugh; 8, Midland; 9, Maxwell.

AND STILL THE NEWS GROWS.

The Linotype machine which several months ago The News promised its patrons has at last arrived. The delay in delivery was attributable, some may be interested to learn, to the San Francisco disaster. Many of these typesetting machines were destroyed in the ruins of Frisco's big newspaper plants. The large orders for machines with which to replace those destroyed took precedence with the manufacturers over The News order for one.

But it's here at last and in a few days will be setting all the type used by The News. Being a ponderous and intricate piece of machinery, much care and pains are necessary to install it. By next week all accessory appliances and supplies will be here and this thing that works like it had brains will start to operating.

As is well known The News has never lagged in the matter of enterprise—either enterprise within its own walls or that of the community at large. This Mergenthaler Linotype entails a total investment of $4,000. It should be a source of pride to the citizens of Pontotoc county, the fact that with this machine added The News is the best equipped newspaper plant in the Territory, outside of Muskogee, South McAlester and Ardmore. It represents a greater investment and carries a larger payroll than any other industrial plant that runs all the year round in Pontotoc county.

White The News has always done its best, its best is going to be bigger. The Linotype will enable us to do more and faster and better printing. As a consequence the newspaper will be bigger and better.

This paper does not purpose to stop growing till Ada and Pontotoc county do; that probably will be never.

Krieger for Commissioner.

F. C. Krieger, who announces for the office of county commissioner for the Western district of Pontotoc, is a well known citizen of the town of Center. Fifty-five years of age, for thirty-four years he has lived in the Choctaw-Chickasaw country. He started out on the farm, and he has stuck to it.

One of the prominent intermarried citizens of our county, Mr. Krieger will be a taxpayer, and he will know what ought to be done with the taxes. While he favors an economical administration of affairs, still he believes in progress. He feels that if we are to get any benefits from statehood, we must have some good roads and good schools, and at the earliest possible moment. Though good roads and bridges and schools will cost much money, he thinks in these three matters there should be no niggardness displayed.

Mr. Krieger is a good Democrat and wants office not otherwise than at the hands of the Democratic party. Those voters who may not know his standing, he refers them to the business men of Ada, with many of whom he has dealt, or to the people generally of the Center community.

Mr. Krieger would make a good, safe, sound commissioner.

Carnival Is Ready.

The Carnival company making Ada this week is now ready for performance and will put on their first shows tonight at 7:00 o'clock.

your cough is only in the throat and does not trouble you now, don't think that it needs no attention. When it has not had much of a start is the time to check it. SPLENDID TO USE.

This is the month to rid the system of Blood disorders of all kinds, of which Rheumatism is the most prevalent symptom and hardest to overcome during the winter months, when the Kidneys have failed to filter out the uric acid and other waste matter.

A well known authority writes that the worst forms of Rheumatism, Blood disorders, also Kidney and Bladder weakness are often readily relieved and prevented during an entire year by taking for a little while one teaspoonful of the following mixture after meals and at bedtime, viz.: Fluid Extract Dandelion one-half ounce, Compound Kargon one ounce, Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla three ounces.

A local druggist states that these are harmless ingredients, which any good prescription pharmacy can supply and anyone can easily mix them at home by shaking in a bottle.

It is said by many of the old folks that the above mixture, if taken during this month, will add years to life and prevent many a sick and miserable day during the year.

OVERDRAFTS
It is becoming well known by business men that overdrafts, whether large or small, are not approved by the comptroller of the currency. The large central banks allow overdrafts only in a very small way, and this, it matters not how small, is not approved by the powers that be. This unbusinesslike habit of overdrafts grew out of advancing on moving products, such as cotton, grain and fat stock on the move. The overdraft system is wrong and the man whose account is always overdrawn is the man who spends more money than he makes and will finally have no bank account.

CLASS EXERCISES.

The Seven Graduates did Splendidly—

The News Extends Congratulations.

In the auditorium of the new Methodist church Monday evening was held the class exercises of the high school. A large and appreciative audience of Ada's best citizens was present to enjoy the delightful occasion and encourage the graduating class. A damp cold evening was not enough to keep the house from being filled.

At 8:00 o'clock the class of seven members with their two teachers, marched upon the platform and seated themselves while soft music was pouring itself into the ears of the audience. The class of five young men and two young ladies made an excellent appearance with their well rounded physiques and countenances beaming with intelligence. It was a delight to see these young people standing at the gateway of life's activities.

After the invocation by Rev. Robertson, Presnal Sugg, the saluatorian, in a short but well worded speech presented some gems of thought on character. He dealt with the importance of early forming a character that would stand any test. Presnal deeply impressed the audience. Then was given the history of the class by James George. His individual way of presentation, his sparks of humor, and his delineation of the character of each member brought the house to irresistible applause. The class poet, Miss Sims, in rhythmic flow, next sang the laudations of her classmates and teachers. The poetry and thought so harmonized that the words fell upon the listening ears pleasingly. The house made no attempt to withhold the applause they knew she so much merited. The veil of the future was drawn aside by Philip Thompson, and we were permitted to look upon the finished life's work of each member as recorded in the great Book of Deeds. The prophecy in the most part dealt with the members in the professions to which they aspire and pictured for each with varying fortunes ultimate success. The trend of the prophecy was decidedly new and interesting. Miss Torbett read an essay on the well chosen subject of "Woman." She did her subject honor and dull and unappreciative, indeed, would have been the woman present, who did not feel her heart fill with pride and appreciation of her womanhood as she listened to the thoughtful and true words of the class essayist. It was beautiful in thought, in rhetoric superb. The class orator, Gilbert Reed, delivered an oration on "Our New State," a subject in which all are deeply interested. He gave something of the vast resources, of the class of citizens, and of the admirable location of the state, showing how it must, in spite of every drawback,

WEAVER RETURNS

Ada's Delegate to Constitutional Convention At Home.

Carlton Weaver returned from Guthrie this morning on the Katy. When asked concerning the closing days of the convention he said: "There was considerable work necessitated by the recent supreme court decision relating to the legality of the supreme election board created by the constitutional convention. In order to come within the pale of the court's holdings we had to repeal the first and build another in which each new county was apportioned into sub-divisions, and a board of county commissioners and a county clerk for each provided for. This ordinance alone is as long as the constitution itself."

Continuing, Mr. Weaver said: "The finished constitution has been formally signed and is now being printed preparatory to distribution."

HOME MADE OIL BURNER.

Simple Device Easily Made Which Will Work.

By the following directions an efficient oil burner may be made at home. Into a one-inch tee, A, place a three-eighths inch elbow and run babbitt around it to hold it in place, and also to keep the steam from leaking into the oil. Screw a three-eighths inch pipe long enough to reach through the boiler front into the furnace, into the elbow. Over the three-eighths inch pipe screw a one inch pipe, B three inches longer than the other, into the tee, so that the smaller pipe is exactly in the center of the larger one.

Pipe C runs from the tee to the oil tank pipe D to a steam main or air tank, and E is a valve to regulate the amount of oil and steam or air

In a system where a brick-lined well E, was supplied at all times with clean pure water through a pipe D running out into Lake Ontario a distance of 500 or 600 feet a leak developed in the submerged pipe so that after a windstorm muddy water found its way into the well. ## TUNNELS BUILT ABOVE GROUND

Two underground depots and a considerable length of connecting tunnel for the use of the Metropolitan subway lines of Paris are being constructed on a public street and when completed will be sunk into position. In other words this unusual piece of engineering work consists in building a tunnel in the open air.

The main line of the Metropolitan railway crosses the two branches of the Seine and the Isle of Cite which divide the river at a point just south of the Bridge of St. Michel. That portion of the line which crosses the island is being built in the street where the great steel framework is ing to the top of the third story of abutting buildings attracts much attention. The sections which are to cross the river have already been built on land and floated to location where they are being sunk to the required level below the bottom of the river. The land and water sections mentioned are 5,800 feet in length.

The illustration conveys a good idea of the construction. When completed the inside measurement of the tunnel will be 78 feet wide by 56 feet high. There are two land sections 1,500 feet and 1,800 feet long respectively. Inside the steel frame

Oil Burning Engines.
An American company is building for the Mexican Central railroad a number of oil burning freight engines of an unusual type. They are eight coupled engines with a leading pony truck. The boiler has 2,168 square feet of heating surface. The total weight available for adhesion is about 110 tons the ratio of tractive effort to adhesion being one to four and three-quarters. A boiler pressure of 200 pounds to the square inch is used. The fuel is crude petroleum which is vaporized by a steam jet and deflected against a soapstone arch in the fire box.

Pocket Telephones.

Vienna policemen it is said, are provided with pocket telephones which they can connect in a second to the wire in special call boxes placed in all important streets.

Big Block of Granite.
The largest and heaviest single block of granite ever sent to Canada from the United States has just been shipped from a Barre Vermont quarry to Cote de Neiges P. Q. a suburb of Montreal. The stone is three and a quarter feet square and 32 feet long, and weighs 22 tons. It was consigned to J. Brunet, the sculptor, by whom it was fashioned into a memorial monument to be erected in honor of the late Raymond Prefontaine, who was Canadian minister of marine and fisheries.

German Exports of Steel.

The German exports of iron and steel last year represent a total of 3,868,278 tons against 3,358,420 in 1905, an increase of 307,858 tons, or nine per cent. The excess of exports over imports amounted to 2,976,198 tons, against 2,981,425, a decrease of 5,227 tons, or 0.2 per cent.

Sporting Gossip.

Thomas Hueston of St. Louis retains the world's continuous pool championship as the result of his match with Jerome Keogh of Buffalo. Hueston made 600 points while Keogh had 497 at the end of the three nights' play. Hueston declares that he favors a change in the rules of championship pool matches. His contention is that the present rule, which makes it necessary for the limit of 600 balls to be played in blocks of 200 for three consecutive nights, is too long, at least the nightly string required. As Hueston pointed out it required practically five-hour sessions at the table each night to count the prescribed block of 200 balls which was too great a physical tax upon the players. It is his belief that four nights' play of say 125 balls each night would afford a better and more interesting contest. Hueston said: "True it would shorten the total to 50 balls, but the contest would be better sustained. Even four nights of 150 balls would be far better than the present arrangement. It is my plan to have the rule amended at the earliest possible moment. In this Keogh joins me. It will be necessary for all holders of the championships to concur in this but I believe they are with me and that a new rule will be made. Keogh said that he not only favored shortening the nightly block of points but also that the present method of inserting stiff leather pockets in the table be done away with. He pointed to the fact that a number of promising sessions at the table were terminated for him because of the ball rebounding from the leather as from rubber and rolling on the table after it had been squarely pocketed.

I never crow, said Earl Moore the Cleveland American twirler. Baseball is too fickle an occupation. One day you pitch an arm off you have control and speed and everything else that a pitcher should have and still you lose. Another day you just lob the ball over the plate and give plenty of bases on balls and even then get a no hit victory. A pitcher doesn't have to run against many experienced like these before he is ready to admit that come what may he has no reason to grow chesty. The same thing applies with some variation to ball players in general. Stars come and go and are forgotten. Today you're at the top of the heap and the crowd cheers and declares you are the only ball player that ever lived. Tomorrow some other man may be filling your job and if he makes a good showing you are forgotten as thoroughly as though you were but a passing fancy. Star players have their part in the game and they are drawing crowds but after all it is the great old game that most people go out to see and a winning team no matter what its composition is the thing a crowd most admires.

In the future or for a year at least the two great American sports base ball and bowling, are apt to be closely allied. Cincinnati had everything her own way at the convention of the American Bowling Congress at St. Louis and elected Garry Herrmann of Cincinnati the baseball magnate president over President Bryson of Indianapolis former president, and chose Herrmann's home city for the 1908 convention. The secretaryship contest threatened to be a warm affair for a time but the withdrawal from the race of Charles D. Wilson and Edwin Peifer the two Chicago candidates before the balloting began simplified matters and Abe Langtry of Milwaukee won with 78 votes, as compared to 40 and 17 for H. G. Rautenberg and D. J. Sweeney of St. Louis respectively. Frank Padeloup of Chicago had no opposition for the treasurer's position and was chosen for that office for the fifth time. It was decided by the congress that in the future all bowling tournaments shall begin before Feb. 10. A national bowling commission made up of Col. J. H. Haeger of Louisville, Robert H. Bryson of Indianapolis, two former presidents of the A. B. C., and J. W. McCormick of Toledo was appointed to meet with delegations from the National and Western Bowling associations to bring about uniformity in the playing rules and prevent conflicts in tournament dates.

WHEN JEWELS NEED CLEANING.

Various Ornaments Require Different Modes of Treatment.

Most gold ornaments when plain or worked and unadorned with gems, should be washed in warm soapsuds from time to time, excellent results being obtained if a few drops of sal volatile are added to the hot water before making the lather. In the case of chains composed of close links, which are most apt to harbor dirt and dust, few remedies equal that of placing them to soak in a bottle half full of warm soapsuds mixed with a little prepared chalk.

The chains should be left for a few hours, after which the bottle must be well shaken, the lather poured off and the ornaments first rinsed in cold water and then dried as thoroughly as possible.

Diamonds, sapphires, rubies and emeralds are wonderfully restored if they are washed periodically in a little sal volatile and water, the surface being afterward polished with a clean chamomile leather or a soft piece of silk. Precious stones in general are usually improved if they are put away in box wood sawdust instead of being in closed in velvet lined cases.

Turquoises must on no account be touched with water or kept in a damp place while oil or grease is equally fatal to pearls whether real or imitation.

In cases where real pearls have lost their luster a method of treating them is that of laying them to soak for a few days in strong brine and water many old authorities recommending, however the curious baking treatment, the pearls being inclosed in a lump of dough and then baked in a slow oven.

Jade ornaments soon lose their polish if they are neglected and to remedy this few species equal the application of a paste of chalk and water.

Coral can be successfully cleansed by placing the ornaments in a saucepan full of boiling water and adding a few pieces of white soap and soda. They should be boiled for a few moments, then rinsed in tepid water and laid to dry on white paper.

FOR HOME MADE CANDIES.

Some Delicious Confections That Are Not Costly.

Almond taffy.—To make a almond taffy boil together one half pint of water and one pound of brown sugar for ten minutes. Blanch and slice through the middle one and one half ounces of almonds stir them in the syrup with two ounces of butter. Let the mixture boil hard for ten minutes. Pour on a well buttered dish to the thickness of one-half inch.

Candied Walnuts.—Put one and one half cupsful of granulated sugar in a saucepan with one-half cupful of water. Stir until the sugar is dissolved, then boil until the syrup will spin a short hair when dropped from the tines of a fork. Drop in a pint of shelled walnut meats and when the sugar again comes to the boiling point take from the fire and stir until the syrup changes to white candy a portion of which will adhere to the nuts.

"Portiere" Is a Problem Often.

It is not always easy to secure material for portieres that is at once pretty and inexpensive. One woman who has been searching the town over for a fabric combining the two qualities was almost in despair when a friend a decorator suggested that she get mocha canvas for her sleeping room doors and velvet in a soft reseda shade for her library doorway. As the walls were given the colors harmonized charmingly and all told did not cost more than $12 for the two pairs.

The canvas is loosely woven and resembles burlap in appearance though much softer and hugs much more gracefully. It costs 50 cents a yard and is very wide. The velvet, which is also double width can be obtained in a number of soft colorings and while handsome is not so rich looking that it kills everything else in the room. It is especially effective with mahogany or dark oak and with Circassian walnut.

Proper Dish Washing.

The dirty dishes and plates should be put into a dish tub of warm water at once when taken from the table, by this means half the trouble of washing up will be saved, as it will prevent the gravy juice mustard etc. from cooling and drying on the plates and dishes. When you commence washing them add sufficient boiling water to make it very hot and with a dishcloth wash on both sides one at a time. Then rinse in a pan of cold water or under a running tap this makes them clean and bright looking, and removes any little grease that might remain. Now put them in a rack, or on one side to drain.

Buttered Apples.

Peel and core eight tart apples. Put them in a baking dish and fill the hollow of each with sugar and a tiny pinch of cinnamon or mace if liked. As they cook baste them with a tablespoonful of butter melted in a cupful of hot water. Cover the apples. Boil a cupful of sugar and half a cupful of water and a blade of mace five minutes. When the apples are tender—not broken—pour this over them after they are removed from the dish.

In Peeling Apples.

If a silver knife is used instead of a steel one the fingers will not become black, as acid from the apple unites with iron, but not with silver.

Lemons.

Which have dried and hardened again will become quite soft if allowed to soak in cold water.

NOT EQUAL TO THE TEST.

"It's all rank nonsense to talk about the men of this day and generation not having the courage and valor of the men of the olden times," said Mr. Juniper, wrathfully, as he slammed down the paper he had been reading.

"People don't seem to remember," he added, "that there's nothing in this day to call forth exhibitions of high courage and true fearlessness. Let the occasion arise, let the country be in peril, let traitors insult the flag, let anything happen to put men to the test, and you would see that we would match in splendid courage the heroes of any age."

Chaimed with his own oratory, he burst forth again.

"I only wish I might prove to the world that there is one man in this 'age of weakness' as it is called, who is ready to do or dare anything if need be, to face any foe or danger, to—"

"I'm truly glad to hear you say so, Henry," said Mrs. Juniper, "for you know that Bridget, the cook, was to be discharged to day, and I haven't the courage to do it. If you'll just go down now and—"

"Why, it's almost two o'clock," said Juniper hurriedly. "I forgot that I had an important engagement at two o'clock in town. I must be off this minute. Just tell that fiend that she'll have to go, that's all. I'm off."

Her Helpful Suggestion.

"I have written an exquisite poem," said Bardsley, but I can't think of a title for it. You see it is one of those vague impressionistic things that are so beautiful and yet so elusive that it is hard to define them."
